

Unsolicited Ideas Policy Statement

Fujifilm has extensive research and development programs and is continuously working on and developing new products and processes, new uses and/or improvements for existing products and processes, new or modified devices, equipment, apparatus, business ventures, marketing plans, and the like. In addition, Fujifilm has already accumulated a large collection of intellectual property and business and technological ideas.

In order to avoid possible future confusion between Fujifilm's ideas and any ideas submitted to Fujifilm, as well as to avoid restriction of its own research and development program and activities, Fujifilm maintains a policy not to accept any non-public or otherwise confidential ideas. By submitting an idea to Fujifilm, you agree that Fujifilm has no obligation (i) to keep such idea or any submitted materials as confidential, (ii) to study, evaluate, consider or adopt such idea, (iii) to return any submitted materials or (iv) to compensate you or any other party for such idea.
